SPECIAL TOWN MEETING DELAYED ONLY 18 MINUTES

Some 86 voters, 4 visitors and Dr. MacDougall's English Setter met at the high school cafeteria, in Town Meeting, Monday night, to approve the change in zoning, as proposed by the Selectmen.

The meeting was delayed until 8:18 p.m. because of insufficient quorum. After being called to order, Moderator Elman directed that all visitors, by which he meant non-voter should sit in a special bank of chairs. Father Regan and TM Cushing were two of the "visitors," and they took their seats amid good natured bantering.

The Warrant was read by the Moderator, and then the article was moved by Selectman Lawler. After having been seconded, Finance Committee Chairman Barrows stated that his committee had approved unanimously. Edward Manning, chairman of the Planning Board then read a statement giving the reasons why the town should approve of the change. He further stated that the Planning Board was planning a revision of zoning laws, in order to bring the town up to date on its zoning. The Planning Board had approved.

The discussion followed. Selectman Lawler showed the proposed change on a map, and mentioned that the Sylvania Electric Products were the potential buyers. "I still can't say that they will move," said Selectman Lawler, "but they do have an interest in this site."

Mr. Lawler went on to say that Selectman Lyons had been in contact as had other Selectmen, with the Sylvania Co. for some years, and that recently TM Cushing had taken over the correspondence and promotional efforts with this company.

Mr. Lawler finished his discussion by recommending that the town approve the article, for the reasons showed by the Planning Board.

The question was called for. The chair explained that this called for a standing vote, and the vote having been taken it was announced as Yes 79, No 0. The Moderator declared the vote unanimous.

Selectmen Lyons moved adjournment, and it was seconded and voted at 8:27. It had taken 18 minutes to get a quorum, and 9 minutes to hold the meeting.

IRVING APPLEBY SPEAKS IN READING TO CLUB

On Thursday evening, July 12, Mr. Irving Appleby of Butters Row spoke before the Annual Summer Meeting of the Odd Fellows of Reading. Mr. Appleby chose as his subject, "Working on the Ocean Floor." His talk was most interesting and well received by all who attended.

Mr. Appleby stated that his work as a diver is in lighter salvage line and does not deal with such things as "Treasure Ships." Working under water he has never met anything more unusual than a few gigantic turtles weighing in the neighborhood of 60 pounds. Because of the moving tides it is possible to work on the ocean floor for more than three hours at a time.

On July 18, 19 and 21st, Mr. Appleby will descend to the bottom of Nantasket Harbor to repair a small pipe line which transports fresh water into the lobster bays of a nearby business man.

TOWN DUMP CLOSED TO NON-RESIDENTS - CLOSED ALL DAY SUNDAY

After a man has finished at Newport, and is assigned to permanent ship or station, the Crusader will be sent to him.

UNDERGROUND VALLEYS IN WILMINGTON

Long before the ice age, when the Merrimack River flowed south from Lowell, through Wilmington and the Mystic Valley to the sea, there was another river which came down from the region of Foster's pond, and joined the Merrimack at about the point which the Sylvania Co. is thinking of buying.

Wilmington's amateur geologists have known for a long time of the Merrimack river valley, but the other river is another story. The TM learned about it from the US Geological Survey and it is because of these ancient river valleys that the town is able to guarantee to the Sylvania Corporation the flow of the amount of water that it wants.

PRINCIPAL ASSESSOR AT WORK

Mr. Frank Walters, principal assessor for the Town of Wilmington has spent a busy week working in the Middlesex Northern District Registry, in Lowell, in the Land Court in Boston, and in the office of Tax Commissioner Long, in the initial effort to recover for the Town of Wilmington the right to receive tax money from land which is now, or has been for a long time, dormant and non-paying.

Certain lots of land were taken by the town, in tax titles, in 1948, in which due to a combination of circumstances, such as assessment to the wrong person, incorrect advertising, duplicate takings, etc., the ultimate result was an illegal seizure of land.

This opinion, which Mr. Walters has evolved after studying the records and circumstances, has been concurred in by the Town Counsel Mr. Philip B. Buzzell. Tax Commissioner Henry F. Long and his deputy, Edward C. Wilson have also concurred, and they have agreed to the corrective measure proposed by Mr. Walters.

In the original taking on one occasion of tax title land, many of the parcels which were described were complicated, and full of errors. The office of the Tax Commissioner first proposed that Wilmington's assessors correct these errors, as to blocks, but after Mr. Walters had shown the many difficulties in this program, a subsequent procedure suggested was to disclaim the entire parcels of land, where so many errors had been made, and that the town should re-advertise and retake the land.

In case this sounds simple, your reporter can truthfully state that in one parcel, the description of which he has seen, 178 lots of land were described, and of these 29 were in error, some of them being improperly and wrongfully taken in the first place.

An eminent legal authority, who knows the circumstances of this case has stated that there is enough work here to keep six lawyers busy in order to get the matter straightened out.

Wilmington officials are all co-operating, under the direction of TM Cushing, in an effort to correct defective tax titles, and to foreclose the rights of redemption, so that the town will acquire absolute title in the many parcels of land held by the town under tax titles.

WOULD IT HELP IF SOMEONE WAS KILLED?

In the majority of the stations of the B&M RR there is a landing platform, for the passenger's benefit, which brings them within a reasonable distance of the first step of the railroad coach. Even with this landing platform, the distance to the first step is somewhere in the neighborhood of ten inches, and the railroad recognizes this by always having a conductor or other employee at each end of each coach, to assist the passengers getting off.

North Wilmington Station does not have a platform. The distance to the first step is approximately 18 inches. The North Wilmington commuter gets up in the morning, runs around the house three times, and then practices standing high jumps for five minutes. Only then does he feel that it is safe to try to get on the train.

Last March, the Temporary Town Manager protested to the Superintendent of the Portland Division about this condition.

Since then we know of one lady who ruined a pair of stockings, and of another lady who tore her dress, getting on and off the train in North Wilmington. Last week we saw one of the more elderly gentlemen of North Wilmington tear his trousers. The conductor took his name and address, if that is any comfort.

Perhaps the Railroad intends to wait for a serious injury before it is going to take notice.

It certainly doesn't pay any attention to ordinary civil requests.

WEINBERG'S STORE

We pause to take recognition of the fact that this year is the twenty-fifth anniversary of Weinberg's Store.

In a small rented shop, twenty-five years ago, this local business was struggling for a foothold. Hard work, perseverance and a high regard for good ethics have paid their reward, and today the store is in its own building, and is among the leaders of Wilmington business.

Congratulations to Weinberg's.

A PATROLMAN'S LIFE IS A MERRY ONE

Twas a balmy Saturday evening, and the Sergeant sat behind the desk, getting ready to go on duty - he had the midnight to 8 a.m. shift. Just as midnight tolled, excited citizen came in, trying very hard to be very calm. "A holdup," no less, he reported "at Rusty's garage." The Sergeant lifted up one eyebrow, slowly. "Honest," continued our citizen. "I saw the guy on the sidewalk."

The Sergeant called the patrolman in from the corner, and the two of them jumped into the cruiser and soon were on their way to Rusty's garage. There they found citizens No. 2 and 3, and also 4, 5, 7, 8, 9, and 10. Everyone was discussing the event, and no one knew where the "guy" was. "He went off in a car," "Somebody took him somewhere," "He is on his way to the hospital," "He is on his way to the police station," "I don't know, he went away."

The Sergeant and the patrolman checked the garage and drove back to the station. In the square, two cars were parked abreast, drivers obviously talking about the holdup. The patrolman slipped out, and went down to listen in, and, incidentally get that car off the street.

There was no one in the station. The Sergeant looked around a bit, and decided to call up Rusty. He dialed the number. The telephone buzzed in the manner that telephones buzz in when the number is being rung. It buzzed and buzzed. In walked a young fellow.

"The telephone is ringing at Rusty's, and no one is home," he volunteered.

"What do you know about this?" said the Sarge, letting the telephone ring.

"Oh," said the young fellow, "I saw the guy at Rusty's, and I took him home. He had been having a little too much of the Fourth of July!"

"No," he continued, "there was no holdup. I am positive" - "I know the guy, and I took care of him!"

"OK," said the Sarge, and he hung up the phone.

One Way To Cure Your Dog!

In a nearby town there dwells a family which is in no way remarkable. Father always forgets to pay his poll tax, on time, each year, with the result that he always has to pay a fine in addition, and is a very disgruntled father for three days afterwards, to Mother's certain distress. Mother, who learned to smoke, so as to cut down on her candy consumption, is now always worrying about the number of cigarettes she smokes, and is forever resolving to stop on the next first of January. The children - well there is always a broken leg, or the measles, or something.

And there are other of life's little annoyances with which Daddy has to contend (he never thinks of Mother having to contend with annoyances). There is the lawn to mow, every day, it seems, in the summer and there is snow to shovel in the winter. Of course, there are plenty of neighborhood boys who offer themselves from time to time as likely candidates for the lawnmowing and snow-shoveling tasks, but somehow, daddy can't see paying the boys of some other family to do things that his own boys could do - not that they ever do the lawns or snowshoveling either. Somehow, daddy finds it easier to do the job himself, tired as he is after a day's work, than to spend twice as long getting the boys onto the job, besides staying there with them to keep them at it.

A few years past, mother persuaded daddy, or daddy persuaded mother depending on whose version you hear, that there ought to be a family dog, in order to provide company for the children. In due course of time, there arrived at the family home a Sealyham Pup, which mother thought was very cute, and the children adored. Father looked at the bill, which said $50, and said nothing.

The pup grew, and learned to play with the children. In due time he became housebroken, because mother took the time to give the pup the few necessary lessons. Daddy didn't have time to give the pup any lessons - he was too busy mowing the lawn. Daddy wanted to take the pup down to the local dog club, but that met on Wednesday nights, and that was daddy's lodge night. The pups education was important, but not important as all the regalia that daddy wanted to have an excuse for wearing.

There were things that the pup did learn, without benefit of schooling - such as the neighbor's garden provides wonderful digging, and two doors down the street he found a very fine fun provoking clothes yard. Then there were the passing automobiles, something that provided endless fun and entertainment for the pup, and endless worry for daddy. He could and did pay for the digging job in the first neighbor's garden, and the clothes line job in the second, but every time that the pup dashed out to bark at the front wheel of a passing car, daddy envisioned the $50 which the pup had cost, plus the $13 for inoculations, plus the $2 for the license, plus the innumerable packages of dog food at 79c in the local grocery store and groaned. He tied the pup up, and all night the pup howled. The neighbors complained, and next night the pup was free again. Finally, one day somebody told daddy about the amonia treatment.

The amonia treatment, according to what daddy had heard, is quite drastic, but not in a permanent way. It is very simple. You get a water pistol, fill it with ammonia, and give it to a friend, who, with another friend drives past your house. When the dog comes out to bark and chase the front wheel, shoot him with the ammonia-filled water pistol, and he will never chase another automobile. It is very simple, and always works, except the dog's owner must not be involved, nor his car, because the dog will never forgive him.

The police department - daddy thought, they'll do it for me. Quickly daddy drove to the station, and told the desk sergeant. Sure, the police department would cooperate. We will give him a shot of tear gas, that ought to be easy, and ought to teach him a lesson. The trial was arranged for that afternoon.

That afternoon, the police cruiser came honking down the street. Daddy was on hand, and made sure that the pup was handy. Sure enough, the pup took the bait, and went gaily out of the driveway, barking at his nice friendly front wheel, and then suddenly there was a small cloud of smoke, and a very surprised and agrieved pup came reeling back into the yard.

Oh yes, the pup still chases automobiles. He never chases the police cruiser though.

TOWN NOTES

WATER DEPARTMENT

Last year we heard a jingle which went something like this:

Mr. Harriman don't 'low no water sprinkling here,

Mr. Harriman don't 'low no water sprinkling here,

I don't care what he allow, I'm gonna sprinkle anyhow,

Even if he don't 'low no water sprinkling here.

We have to report that, for the present, there is no danger of that jingle being revived. The Water Department, at the moment has all the water it wants, and then some. There may have to be some well cleaning later on though.

We have also heard that there

LEGAL NOTICE

Wilmington Board of Appeals
This Board will hold a public hearing in the Town Hall, on Monday, July 30, on the petition of Amaden Vela, of 66 Prentiss Street, Cambridge for the right to erect and operate a gasoline filling station on the corner of Middlesex Avenue and Truman Road, in Wilmington, Mass.

(s) Howard C. Woolaver, sec.
Jl-11-18

is a deal in the making (not yet 100 per cent certain) whereby the town will get another tract of land, in a different part of town, which is supposed to have a good water supply, to supplement our present supply.

TOWN HALL

We were in slight error, on a couple of points, with regard to our Town Hall story last week. The Assessors are going to have a safe right near their office. (No exercise needed, hmmm?). It is not yet certain that Mr. Buckle will move into the room that is being vacated by the Selectmen and Assessors.

Awnings are going to be put up on the south side, over the windows, now that the main part of the town hall is being used for an office. The sun beats in mightily fiercely, at present, around the middle of the day.

TELEPHONE NUMBERS

Here are a few numbers to note down in your telephone notebook. Dean Cushing, Town Manager, Wilmington 2-7043. Town of Wilmington, Treasurer and Board of Assessors, Wilmington 2-7081. Town of Wilmington, Town Manager, and Town Manager's Secretary, Wilmington 311, and Town of Wilmington, Town Collector and Clerk, Wilmington 2-7014.

BLUEBERRIES

This promises to be a great blueberry season. Reports reaching this paper tell of very good yields. The price is in the neighborhood of 35 cents a quart, at this writing.

We haven't had any reports from behind the Congregational Church yet. We wonder what will happen to this favorite blueberry area after Lawrence acres gets built up.

TIGER LILIES

We note that the Tiger Lilies are blooming. These plants, so different from others, are always pleasing to the eye.

DRUGSTORE

The drugstore in Wilmington Sq. is coming along nicely. It will be, as everyone knows, in the middle store of the block, and will occupy a space approximately 28 feet wide, and 75 feet deep (we guess). The ceiling is of Johns-Manville ceiling blocks. The fixtures, which are to be blond in color are due on July 18, and we may expect the drugstore to be moving in shortly. The site of the present store is being negotiated for by several companies. We have heard that among these companies is a gas appliance company, a ladies apparel store, and a branch office for a Lowell bank.

The little shop, where the barber shop used to stand, presents a very tight appearance. We don't know, because we haven't been inside, but we heard one person make a crack about being sure there is a back door, because a fat man might not be able to turn around and go out the front one.

There is sufficient strength in the building, so we are told, so that a second story can be added at any time that conditions warrant.

ASSESSORS

Some of the people whom we consider as being among Wilmington's more understanding individuals, with ability to think for themselves, commented favorably on our editorial about the Assessor problem. As one gentleman said (and he is no friend of our Assessors), we must never forget to look every gift horse in the mouth, no matter how fine a mane he may have.

We had lunch with the new principal assessor last week. We must report that he has an engaging personality. (No, we didn't look in his mouth!)

HAY

Wilmington farmers are getting their hay cut somewhat late in the season. The recurring rain and showers delayed most of them, and now they are working overtime, illustrating the old adage about making hay while the sun shines.

There are two hay binders in town, one owned by Bob Evans, and the other by the Yentile Brothers of Cross street. The Evans machine binds the bales with wire, which is still to be had in quantity, but the Yentile machine uses a special twine, which is very difficult to get at the moment. We understand that the Yentiles have ranged as far as Nashua, looking for some twine.

There is plenty of hay, this year and the price is reasonable.

GRAVEL PIT

There is always a pile of gravel on the highway, outside the gravel pit at the corner of Woburn and Salem Street. We don't like it. The public is not expected to put up with the inconvenience of bumping over some one else's gravel pile, and we would like to see someone clean off the street here at least once in a while.

BIRCH TREES

In our June 27 issue we carried a story about the Birch Leaf Miner, based on information released by the Commonwealth. That information said that a second attack of the Birch Leaf Miner was due between the dates of July 3 - 14. The 14th has come and gone, and we haven't seen any sign of the Miner. Not only that, but the Birch trees all seem to have grown new leaves, and look very healthy now.

AUTO ACCIDENT ON SHADY LANE DRIVE

There was an auto accident, with only slight damage, between two cars on Shady Lane drive on July 14 at 4 p.m. One car was operated by Emma Winsor of Somerville, and the other by Shirley Sullivan.

Planning Board Meets

The Wilmington Planning Board held a hearing, Friday evening, to consider the Article for the Town Warrant of July 16, under the chairmanship of Edward Manning. Present were John Ritchie, Elmer Woller and Norman Perry.

The proponent was TM Cushing. He explained that he had been talking with a firm that would be very desirable from the town's viewpoint, and that this firm had pointed out this site of land, and had stated that, were this land properly zoned, it would be the number one site on their list for a new plant. TM Cushing stated specifically that there was no promise in this statement, but that if that firm could so look on this site, then others too should be interested, and he thought it best, in the interests of the town, to have the land so zoned that it could be available for industry.

All possible abutments had been checked, and there was no dissent. The Town Counsel had ruled that it would be impossible to "spot zone," hence the need for rezoning a one piece tract, with natural boundaries. The TM went on to say that he represented, by oral permission, several of the abutments, whom he named, and that they were agreeable to the proposed change.

Mr. Frank Yentile, one of the abutments, spoke in favor of the change.

Mr. Joseph Woods, Selectman, representing the Board of Selectmen spoke in favor of the change. He stated that the Selectmen had given the TM the "go ahead signal."

Mr. Stanley Webber, abutment, spoke in favor of the change. He went on to caution the Board that the Town must guard against over-enthusiasm in rezoning. He asked the chairman if the proposed project, which he understood to cover 20 to 30 acres, would change the valuation of other buildings in the area.

TM Cushing replied to this, saying that in his opinion, which should be taken with a grain of salt, the value of buildings would be enhanced.

Mr. Webber went on to point out that he owned a site which he considered equally choice, from industrial standpoint, and that it was available. He stated that, furthermore, he was not proposing his site in exclusion to any other, and that he was for this project, no matter what the site.

Committeeman Ritchie asked as to the legality of spot zoning, which the TM said, in opinion of town counsel was illegal.

The chairman asked if the Tanner Street line had been considered, for Zone boundary.

The Tanner Street line, had been considered, said the TM, but the Town Counsel had pointed out that it had never been laid out.

Mr. Woller asked if this was being rezoned for any industry. The TM replied that this was being rezoned for any light industry, and he emphasized the word light.

After some general discussion of the Zoning Laws, the hearing was closed.

The Board later announced that it approved of the proposed change.

LIGHTNING KILLS HORSE

I'm sure that all of us are in sympathy with the Bartons of Hiram, Me. We are informed that during a storm a few weeks ago lightning struck former Wilmington Fire Chief Joe Barton's barn, split a beam and killed one horse while injuring another. This is an exceptional bit of tough luck as our informant notes that the Bartons only recently had purchased the two animals.

As always there is a bright side to the picture. The lightning did not start the usual fire which would have certainly destroyed the barn and possibly the house.

POLL TAX EXEMPTIONS

All Wilmington male citizens have received their poll tax bills and, we presume, have paid them by this time. This is to remind the men in the service that they are exempt from paying poll taxes, providing that they make application to the town collector. Those men who cannot get to the town hall, because they happen to be in other parts of the country, or out of the country should have relatives call at the town hall for the proper forms to be sent to the man for signature.

TOWN MANAGER PETITION

There is a rumor in Wilmington that some people are getting up a petition to do away with the Town Manager form of government. The Crusader has tried to chase down this rumor, but without success. It is, of course, absurd to attempt any such move, as the Charter specifically provides that this form of government shall continue without interruption for three years.

BRITISH WAR BRIDE GOES HOME FOR VACATION

Mrs. Ivy Jacobsen of Andover street sails on the 1st of August for a six month vacation, and visit to the old home, in Manchester, England. She leaves her husband home to take care of Linda, age 2½, while Ivy and Betty, 6 months old, sail the briny deep on the RMS Mauretania.

Ivy, who was home for a visit a couple of years ago is one of Wilmington's war brides. Her husband Otto Jacobsen met and won his bride in England during the war, now works as a roofer for the firm of Hurley Brothers in Somerville.

TOWN OF WILMINGTON INVITATION TO BID

The Town of Wilmington requests bids on the transportation of children attending the schools in said town. The contract to be awarded for such transportation shall extend from September 1951 to June 30, 1952. All necessary information regarding the specifications of such bids may be obtained from the office of the Superintendent of Schools in Wilmington, Massachusetts. Sealed bids shall be presented to the Secretary of the School Committee, Miss Eleanor F. Grimes, 5 Columbia Street, Wilmington, Massachusetts, no later than 1200 noon, August 1, 1951.
